The Rwandan genocide was one of the darkest chapters in human history. In just 100 days, over 800,000 people were slaughtered in a systematic and brutal campaign of violence.

Lost Lives New Voices is a groundbreaking project that brings together the voices of survivors of the Rwandan genocide. Through powerful storytelling and moving testimonies, this project is shedding light on one of the darkest chapters in human history and providing a platform for those whose voices have long been silenced.

The Power of Storytelling

Storytelling is a powerful tool that can be used to educate, inspire, and heal. Lost Lives New Voices uses storytelling to share the experiences of survivors of the Rwandan genocide.

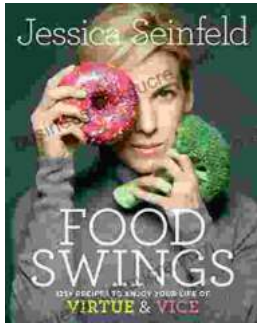

These stories are not easy to hear, but they are essential for understanding the horrors of the genocide and the resilience of the human spirit.

A Platform for the Voiceless

Lost Lives New Voices provides a platform for survivors of the Rwandan genocide to share their stories. This is an important step in the healing process and it also helps to raise awareness of the genocide and its impact.

By giving survivors a platform to share their stories, Lost Lives New Voices is helping to ensure that the Rwandan genocide is never forgotten.
