The Ultimate Beginner's Guide Writing Essays

1. Decide what topic you'll be applying for. Ask yourself if you want the subject for a general admission or a specific course.
2. Create an outline as a diagram for your ideas. It is important that you are able to organize your thoughts effectively by putting them into shape.
3. Write a thesis statement. The final part of the introduction should be an outline of the main points you will be making in the body of the essay.
4. Write the body. The body consists of three major parts: the main point, sub-points, and the elaboration of the sub-points.
5. Write the conclusion. Tie your main point back to the thesis statement. Pay attention to the paragraph and check the clarity of the essay. If you are not satisfied or when you need improvement, make sure to edit it.
6. Review and edit. After you have finished writing, read your essay again. Pay attention to the paragraph and check the clarity of the essay. If you are not satisfied or when you need improvement, make sure to edit it.

What You Need to Avoid When Writing Essays

- Stating the obvious: Don't state the obvious. It's not your job to tell the reader what they already know.
- Using clichés: Avoid using clichés. They are overused and can make your writing sound unoriginal.
- Being too general: Don't be too general. Be specific and provide evidence to support your claims.
- Going off on a tangent: Stay on topic. Don't digress into unrelated information.
- Making assumptions: Don't assume your reader knows what you know. Explain your points clearly.
- Using too many words: Be concise. Use simple, clear language to convey your message.

The Components of an Effective Essay

- Thesis: An essential foundation for the entire essay. It should be a clear statement of your main point.
- A Problem or Question: The reader should know what you are trying to solve or answer. This will help them understand the purpose of your essay.
- Evidence: Your essay should contain evidence to support your claims. This could be in the form of statistics, quotes, or examples.
- Analysis: This is how you connect the evidence to your thesis. It's where you explain how the evidence supports your thesis.
- Structure: The way you organize your ideas is crucial. It should be clear and logical, making it easy for the reader to follow your argument.

How to Write the Conclusion

- 1. Restate the thesis statement. Remind the reader of your main point.
- 2. Summarize the main points. Briefly review the evidence you used to support your thesis.
- 3. Provide a final thought. End with a strong statement that reinforces your thesis or offers a new perspective.

SUGGESTIONS

- ✓ Answer the question. Make sure you have answered the question that was asked.
- ✓ Use evidence. Support your claims with evidence from the text or other sources.
- ✓ Provide your analysis. Explain how the evidence supports your thesis.
- ✓ Be concise. Avoid unnecessary words and phrases.
- ✓ Use a clear structure. Organize your ideas in a logical and easy-to-follow way.

STRATEGIES

- ✓ Restate the thesis statement. This helps to remind the reader of your main point.
- ✓ Summarize the main points. This shows the reader that you have covered all the important information.
- ✓ Provide a final thought. This leaves the reader with a strong impression of your essay.
